About Southtown

The Southtown Council was formed in 1982 by a small group of businesses, institutions and neighborhood associations to work collectively on economic and community issues in South-Central Kansas City. Today, membership stands at nearly 300. The nonprofit Southtown Council has never requested or received government funding. Yet, its 32-year record of achievement includes more than $20 million in public improvements, a new Troost Avenue streetscape, the city's best business and neighborhood communication network, and sound development planning.

Launched in 1999, the Southtown Foundation, a supporting organization of the Council, carries on the Council's public service and charitable efforts, but with the ability to seek philanthropic support through its 501(c)(3) status. The Foundation will build on and expand the Southtown Council's remarkable success in preserving the priceless institutional and neighborhood legacy of Southtown Kansas City.
